POOR ROBIN, 1693.

AN

ALMANACK

Of the Old and New fashion.

OR,

EPHEMERIS both in Jest and Earnest,

wherein the Reader may find (with a true and right Observation of what he reads) many excellent Remarkable things worthy his choicest observation.

Containing a twofold Kalender;

Viz. The Julian, English, or Old Account; and the Round-heads, Whimsey-heads, Maggot-heads, Paper-heads, Slender-witted, Fanatick, or New Account; with their several Saints-days and Observations upon every Month. Being the first after BISSEXTILE, or Leap-Year.

Written by POOR ROBIN, Knight of the Burnt-Island; a Well-willer to the Mathematicks.

The One and thirtieth Impression.

The glorious Heaven in four and twenty hours
Surveying all this various House of ours:
With his quick motion all the Spheres doth move,
Whose radiant glances guild the World above;
And drives them every day (whose swiftness strange is)
From Ganges, to Tagus; and from Tay to Ganges.

Du Bartas, 4 day.

The beginning and ending of the Terms.

Hillary Term.

Hillary Term begins on my word,
On January the Twenty third:
And on the next Month, upon the Twelfth day,
This Term its ending hath alway.

Easter Term.

And Easter Term doth hit out right,
From thence the Wednesday day Fortnight:
And when the Ascension-day is come,
On Monday next this Term is done.

Trinity Term.

On Friday after Trinity Day,
This Term beginning hath alway
And as our Lawyers all do write,
It ends the Wednesday Fortnight.

Michaelmas Term.

If Michaelmas Term you desire to know,
The Twenty third of October doth it shew:
It ends, as I do well remember,
The Twenty eight day of November.

Although it be a wondrous goodly thing,
And full of glory, like a God to reign;
Yet difficult is the Office of a King,
Since careful Thoughts do break their sleep in twain.
Subject to scandals, misreports, and scorns;
So dear their Hony proves, lick'd from Thorns.

Who Money lends on Vſe, it like to be
That is a Merchant Venturer at Sea;
If that his Ship come back again in peace,
It brings home with it Riches and Increaſe:
But if it wracks, the Borrower do break,
All's loſt at once, his Veſſel's run a leak.

A brief Chronology of other things.

Since the death of my Meg-pie, who used to carry away things and hide them, and after was drown'd, upon whom I made this extempore Epitaph:

Some for their Thefts are hang'd, Meg-pie did thus;
Yet she was never hang'd for such a miss:
Alas poor Bird, why should thy Fate be found,
That thou for no Offence at all art drown'd.

Since the Barber of Abery went two miles to Trim a Gentleman, and having powder'd and combed out his Hair, with a great many complemental Snaps with his Fingers; found that he had forgotten his Tools to Trim with, leaving the Gentleman in the Suds until his return. 3

Barbers and Taylors both for Head and Limb,
Doth make each part thereof both neat and trim;
But all their work to little worth appears,
If one his Razor wants, the other his Sheers.

Since the Miller of Quen—— rid upon his Mare, to enquire of his Neighbours, if they could tell any tidings of her. 1

He surely had not drunk his Mornings draught,
To clear his Eyes, or else his sight was naught:
Or having drunk too much, his Sight did trouble,
He could not see at all, or all things double.

The Heart of the Loaf is the Crum, and the Head of the Spring is the Well, which put together is Crumwell.

Since Hugh Peters, (Oliver's Buffoon and Jester) dwindled away his Life in a Hempen-noose, 37
Since Father Peters (Romes Factor to Convert England to Popery) ran-away for fear of the Hempen-noose, 1
For had he stay'd much longer in the Nation,
He had been Nows'd without Equivocation.
Since J. D. in a learned Volume compiled all the Acts of the Rump Parliament, from their beginning to their last day of sitting, in three Lines, viz. We did those things we ought not to have done, and we left undone those things we ought to have done, and there was no truth in us, 36

And Ickles hang dangling on the Rocks:
The Rivers are bound up in Silver chains,
And hoary Frost doth candy all the Plains.

This Year begins as other Years uſe to do; Men think, Women talk, Beaſts feed, Birds fly, Fiſhes ſwim, and Worms creep. The Air is ſharp and cold as Charity at Midſummer, which ſhall cauſe Down beds and Quilted Caps to be in great requeſt. Mony and Honeſty ſhall be two ſcarce commodities, the firſt among Poets, Aſſes, men and Journymen Shoemakers, the later with Brokers, Scriveners, Uſurers and Horſe-courſers, who in all their dealings mix one grain of Honeſty with a pound and half of Knavery. Saturn the moſt part of this Month is in a malevolent aſpect with Jupiter; this ſhall cauſe many Men to damn their Souls to get an Eſtate, to leave their Children after their deceaſe, who ſhall with them hang'd for living ſo long to keep them from it.

Now if that thus a match should breed
'Twas Valentine that did the deed;
To twist them thus in marriage state
When every Bird doth chuse its mate.
This Month also is Shrove-tide found,
When Pancakes and Fritters abound.
Now when you hear the Pancake-Bell,
Think that it is for Hunger's knell.
Who Pancakes eat, this is his luck,
Hunger to kill as dead as Duck;
As Duck upon the Spit a roasting,
And not as Duck on water coasting.
Now Men and Boys at Cocks do throw,
And thereon much cost do bestow;
Which Cocks being boil'd no substance lacks,
For Fumbling men with feeble Backs:
And many Women do thereby
Obtain a pitiful supply.

Observations on February.

Phœbus now comes to Pisces, his last Inn,
And Days to lengthen something do begin;
Yet still the Weather's cold, the Ways are dirty,
Then drink good Sack, for that sure will not hurt ye.

Strange things are like to fall out this Month, Women shall keep their Houses and grow good Housewives, wear their own faces, and which is most lamentable, shall love their Husbands; Maids shall be as cold as Cucumbers, Bawds abolish'd, and there shall be no Cuckolds. Mercury is in his Mullygrubs, therefore it will be as rare to see an honest Horsecourser, as an Old man without a Beard. Many matches shall be half made up, one side will willingly agree, but the other will not. Those that live till they are Threescore years of age, and never see one merry day in all that time, do lead a very melancholy life. Some shall against their wills ride up Holborn in a Cart guarded by the Beadles, and other Officers, of the Garrison of Common Rogues, Cut-purses, and House-breakers.

Warm Zephyrus doth blow with gentle Wing,
To entertain the ever welcom Spring;
Both Grass and Flowers their roots being now unbound,
Get from the frosty prison of the ground.

All things are like to be very plentiful this Month, but Honesty, which will be exceeding scarce, especially amongst Brokers, Catchpoles, Horsecourfers, Informers, Hectors and Pandors. If my Art fail me not, we shall have many pecks full of March Dust, if you but look behind the doors of several flurs houses. Venus is in conjunction with Mercury, this prognosticates that a Ship full of new Fashions will come out of the West or East, which shall employ all the Linnen-trimmers alias Taylors to sniff up a Garment for my Lady Fickle, against the time of the approaching Holy-days. Lent will be very little observ'd by the Quakers, who tho' they pretend to the Spirit, will hardly abstain from flesh so long. Some people shall be so frosh-chevalliant, that tye them to the Railing, and for a Bag-pudding, a Custard, a Cheese-cake, a Hog-cheek, or a Calves-head, they shall fight with any man in the Town

Now the Spring coming on, young Wenches will grow wanton, and rather than live under a Mothers rule, and a Granams tongue, will venture a Lip clap and a Lap clap to get them a Husband, when a little while after the Cuckow sings at their door. Now for those who are so lusty to marry, let me tell them, That it is a Paradise on Earth, if its Laws are observed; but a Hell in the house, if its Statutes are broken; however, be sure to Marry richly, for as Love is the fire, so Wealth is the fewel, and when the Fewel is spent the Fire will soon go out. Then for the choice of a Wife, choose one that hath Eyes of Adamant, that will turn only to one point; her Heart of a Diamond, that will receive but one form; and her Tongue of a Sethru-leaf, that never wags but with a South-east Wind.

Now if you ſhould hear a Mouſe roar like a Beaſt, a Cat lough like an Oak, or a Horſe whiſtle like a Red-breaſt, it would be a greater Wonder than any I ſhall tell you this month. Now where matches are made up betwixt couples, we may fairly prognoſticate, that either they will marry this month, or the next, or the next after, or elſe they will not be married this Quarter of the Year. To thoſe who ſhall mind marrying, 'tis good Counſel that the Poet gives, Felix quem faciunt aliena pericula Cautum. Happy is he whom other Mens Harms do make to beware. Saturn is again malevolent, therefore he that hath an ill name is half hang'd; what will the Lawyers make of that? About this time a certain Mountebank will make a great bullie on the Stage, all whoſe Medicaments extend only to two Receipts, the one againſt the Flies in Summer, the other againſt ſtinking Breaths all the year long.

This Month my fancy ſhall prevail,
To take a Soop at the Milk-pale;
And as the Seaſon, ſo my Theam,
To ſing the Praiſe of Milk and Cream;
From whence ſuch Profit doth ariſe,
As far above Invention lies.

And firſt of Cheeſe if we ſhould treat,
What better and more readier Meat?
And who the Praiſes can utter,
That doth belong unto ſweet Butter?
Turkey Sherbet, Arabian Tea,
Is diſh-water to a diſh of Whey;
It cools the Head, ill Vapours drains,
Drink what you will, 'thurts not the Brains.

What doth in Summer-time more cool,
Than clouted Cream or Goosberry-fool?
Next by our Muſe it might be mutter'd
The Praiſes of Cheeſe-cake and Cuſtard.
Jack-Pudding could not make us laugh
Had he not a Cuſtard to quaffe,
Pan-cakes and Fritters with the reſt,
And Devon-ſhire white-pots with the beſt.

A Pudding without Milk or Cream,
Is hungry, dry, ill-fauoured, lean,
Sack poſſet nor yet Poſſet-drink,
Can't be made without Milk, I think.
Milk's the Ingredient, the Sack's no worſe.
Sack makes the Man, Milk makes the Nurſe.

And when that we have all expreſt,
At laſt comes in the Cream of a Jeſt

The Sun doth now bear such exceeding force,
As causeth for to sweat both Man and Horse;
Now Cyder, Perry, Bottle-ale, Stepony,
In Arbors cool is drunk by many a Crony.

Some Men shall have such good Housewives to their Wives, that every day this month they shall rise by ten of the Clock, whether it be day-light or no, and to signifie that they are in good health, no sooner up but call for their Breakfast. Few Usurers and Misers shall go to Heaven, because Charity being the way thither, they will not go to the cost of it. On the 20th day of this Month, at Bow-green, will appear an innumerable Host of Fools, Gallants, Cuckolds, Bawds, Pimps, Drole-mongers, Elocutors, Pimpes, Shuffle-shares, Gamesters, Nine-pin-players, Bully-rocks, Bully-rullions, Pick-pockets, Jilts, Silken-Hackneys, Wappen-walloons, &c. Ho that all the Houses will be crowded, the Hedges lined, the Ditches filled, and the Fields covered, and all to maintain Commerce with Old Mother by wasting her four Hellish Commodities, Oaths, Curses, Whoring and Drunkenness.

Blest be the Father of the Sky,
The Husbandman of Husbandry,
Who in Glass Barrels up hath hung
His Treasures of ingendring Rain,
That we by Prayers should break the (hung,
And suck out frisking Showers amain;
Till ore our Heads the dreary Dew,
Trickling should the Earth renew.
Thou that make'st us plenty see,
Thine let Praises Harvest be.

Thou drop'st sweet Oyls upon her (head,
Then thorough thy bolting Sives doth (shed
Thy Meal of Manna from the Clouds;
She kneads it into pretty Spears,
Then in her own Womb it shrowds;
But when 'tis bak't it all appears
In Brawn Baskets on her Head,
She dumb, yet crys come buy my bread.
Thou that make'st us plenty see,
Thine let Praises Harvest be.

She dumb, yet crys come buy my bread,
Not for your Pears white or red;
But for your pains, your thanks, your (love;
All thanks be to the gentle Earth,
Thanks to the Power of Powers above,
That feedst us with the fields fair birth
And from thy Stills of cloudy lead,
Dropp'st sweet Oyls upon her Head.
Thou that make'st us plenty see,
Thine let Praises Harvest be.

The days are now rule'd by the raging Dog,
Do not with Potions then your Stomachs clog;
Beware of Surfeits too, of Heat and Cold,
Who this obſerves, may live till he be old.

The Sun in Libra now doth rest,
And days and nights are equal drest;
For why? the shining Ballance bright,
Equal divides the day and night;
Whose gold Beam three gold Rings (there fastens,
Six gold Strings, a Pair of gold (Balens.
Now Apple-trees their laden boughs,
With glistring pride crowns Autumns (brows,
The cluster'd Grapes swell till their (skin,
Scarce hold the Wine-barrel'd within,
Green leaves, the Summer's covering,
Three months in weaving by the (Spring,
Now 'gin to don their yellow Coats,
And Birds do ceale their warbling (Notes;
The cold Autumnal days are seen,
To cobweb every Lawn and Green:
Night doth encroach upon the day,
Time of declining an decay,
And stormy Blasts enforce the Trees,
To wrap their Limbs in mollyfreeze.
The Devil, as some People say,
A Nutting goes Holy-Rood day.
Let Women then their Children keep,
At home that day, better asleep
They were, or Cattle for to tend
Than Nutting go, and meet the Fiend;
But if they'l not be rul'd by this,
Blame me not if they do amiss.

The weather now more temperate we see,
And days and nights again now equal be;
This month hath got an R int, for which reason,
Oysters (they say) do come to be in season.

Now shall a sort of People appear flying upon the high-pad, and performing many nocturnal Atchievments, by bidding people stand, with as much confidence as a Constable, but with this greater civility, that they will dismiss their person, and secure only what they find about them. I find nothing by the Stars, but that women will be generally a little more proud, not altogether so handsome, and much about as honest as they use to be. Venus is in her exaltation, Ladies will blush to hear that nam'd, which they do not fear to handle. Now is the time to take Physick; but take none without great need, for a Physician hath three Faces; Of a Man, when we see him and have no need of him. Of an Angel, when we are sick, and cannot be without him: And of a Devil, when at one and the same time, our Sickness and our Purse ends together.

A SONG.

Foolish Mortals (fed with Pap)
(Sporting in cold Tellus lap)
Always Scraping, always Scoring,
Always Drinking, always Whoring,
You spend your Lives,
With wag-tayl'd Wives,
While the lubrile Syrens rock ye,
Till your proud Flesh make eye pocky,
Driving Acres down your Gullets,
Till you dine with butter'd Bullets;
Drink and drab, study and stare on,
You must all conclude with Charon.

Wash your Throats with Wine and (Wort,
The Gods made Man to make them (Sport;
Nor can ye ere be called Men,
Though you write threescore and ten;
Ye may still be counted Boys,
While ye do delight in Toys,
Painted Pleasures, full of Care,
Short as watry Bubbles are,
Y'are leaden Daddies,
To light Ladies,
Ships floating on a Sea of Glass,
The Stagerite was but an Ass;
Drink and drab, study and stare on,
You must all conclude with Charon.

Observations on October.

Now Term begins, which brings the Lawyers Chink in,
And Crispine comes, the day Shoomakers drink in;
And that time which doth please young People most,
My Lord Mayor's day, set forth with woondrous cost.

Now Winter drons his Snowy ſuits,
The chirping Birds turn'd tongueleſs (Mutes;
Oxen are kill'd, and fatted Hogs,
And Chimnies ſmoak with burning (Logs,
Chriſtmas is come, the time of year,
For rich Men to provide good Chear,
Wherewith to feaſt their needy Neigh- (bours,
In recompenſe of their hard Labours:
As in old time poor Men enjoy'd,
When Cooks & Butlers were employ'd
In dreſſing Meat and fetching Beer,
And feaſting with all ſorts of Chear
This was the uſe in former days,
When Houſhecping did merit Praiſe.
But now what ſhould good Chear (provide,
Is ſpent on Luxury and Pride;
When Womens Heads are ſo adorn'd,
As if they were to Owls transform'd,
Or Signs, which do to People tell,
Here's Pride and Vanity to ſell.
Had I but Wealth unto my will,
Chriſtmas ſhould be obſerved ſtill,
I mean by me, till Life did ceaſe,
The Cook ſhould try in his own greaſe,
And Buttry-doors ſtand open wide,
Freely to all Men at that Tide.
But fie upon all foul ill luck,
My Swans and Geeſe prove ſcarce a (Duck
My Mind is great, my Wealth is ſmall,
And only good-will, that is all.

Poor Robin, 1693.

A Prognostication for this Present Year of our Lord God, 1693.

Containing a Table of Expences, an exact account of the four Eclipses which will happen this Year, two Solar, and two Lunar, with new Astrologick Judgments and Predictions upon each of them. A most accurate Description of the four Quarters of the Year, an Astrological Scheme, the like whereof not to be found unless in our Almanacks; An Observation for unconscionable Lawyers, the Number and Nature of the Planets, with a Guess at the Fortunes of those Persons born under either of them, with other Matters no less pleasant than profitable.

Calculated according to Art for the Meridian of Saffron Walden in Veal-shire, and may indifferently serve for any other Town, either in Kent or Christendom.

He that desires happy to live this Year,
Let him use Honesty, a Conscience clear

When every one doth Knavery detest.

Of the Eclipses, this present Year, 1693.

FOur times this year will the two great Luminaries of Heaven be eclipsed from the Sight of us, who have our Habitations on this earthly Star or dark Sphear of Mortality: Twice the glorious Lamp of Light, the Worlds Surveyor general, the refulgent Sun; And twice also Madam Cynthia, Lady of the Night, and Mistress of the Skies, the mutable Moon; whereof two only will be visible in our Horizon or Skie-encompast Globe. But that we may not be wanting in any thing to give the Reader content, we shall give you an account of the time when, and the Places where they may be observed as well of the invisible, as of those that are visible.

The first then, (which will be a very great Eclipse) will be of the Moon, on January the 13th about our 4 of the Clock in the Morning, in the beginning of Leo, or the Lordly Lyon, which (if the Air be clear) will be visible to us, being a total and almost Central Eclipse.

Its beginning at 30 Minutes past 2 in the Morning.
Middle or greatest Darkness 27 Minutes past 4.
End at 24 Minutes past 6.
Total duration 3 Hours 5 Minutes,
Digits Eclipsed 19 and 32 Minutes.

Now what the effects will be of the Moons thus putting on a Vizard-Mask, we shall endeavour to tell you: In short then, it signifies a scarcity of Honesty, in divers Parts, that the Staple of Trade will shortly be removed from Whetstones Park to the Wells; and great Tribulation happen to those that want Mony. It also portends, that Black Cloaths would be exceeding dear if every one should go into Mourning for the death of their Honesty; and if this prove true, how many that I know, must go in Black all the Days of their Lives? It likewise foreshews, that Chyrurgeons will get more by Venus than Mars, by Placket Combats than pitcht Battels, by Carpet Embraces, than Camp Skirmishes.

Who lie with Whores may catch the French Disease.
For they that sleep with Dogs shall rise with Fleas.

Venus is in a Square with Luna. This foretells the Lovers Oaths will be like Mariners Prayers in Extremity who when the Tempest is over and that the Vessel leaves tumbling, they fall from protesting to drinking; and yet amongst Gentlemen, protesting and drinking go together, and agree as well as Shoomakers and Westphalia-Bacon. Your Town-Pops like nothing but tasting green Fruit, and loath it when 'tis kindly ripened; they cry out that a Woman is past her Prime at twenty, decayed at four and twenty, and old and unsufferable at thirty, as ugly as She whom the Poet describes,

Her Lips of Leather, Nose of purple Hue,
Eyes like Snuffs in Candle Sockets, Chin Coventry Blue.

The Moon and Mercury are in this Eclipse, Radix combust in the ninth House. Women therefore shall be no Changelings, but have their Passions as much at will as they have their Complexions, and put on Joy and Sadness, Scorn and Kindness, with the same ease they do their Paint and Patches: And so much for the first Eclipse.

The second will be an Eclipse of the Sun, on the 23 of June, a little past Noon, in the 12th degree of Cancer, and will be (if our Astronomers mistake not) a very great Eclipse, and visible to us if the Air be clear; but you need not fetch home your Cattel as upon Black Monday.

Which many hundred People were so silly
To do it, being scar'd by William Lilly.

For some write that this great Lamp of Light, the Worlds bright Eye, will be eclipsed only 2 Digits and 34 Minutes, a very small Quantity; and Argol, that great Mathematician mentions it not at all; therefore if thou hast a good Sum of Mony to receive at that time, never fear to go out of doors to fetch it; and yet let me tell you, it is as bad as marrying a Shrew, as in any part of the year besides.

For he who with a scolding Wife is sped,
To Joy and Mirth is dead and buried.

In this Eclipse, Venus is in a Biquintile with Mars; this shews the nature of many Women, who shall be solely proud, proud, before they are half handsome. Jupiter is eradicated in the cusp of Taurus; something is prognosticated thereby, but what it is we know not, nor will the Heavens discover it, although it were to save a Womans longing, only sullen Saturn out of his dogged nature informs us thus much, That he who hath a true Friend indeed, who like a Chimney will be hottest in the Winter of Adversity; That Man has obtain'd a most rare Jewel, according to the Poet,

That Man I'le commend, and would have to my Friend
If I could tell where to choose him,
That will help me at need, and stand me in stead,
When I have occasion to use him.

The third will be a great Eclipse of the Moon, upon the 7th Day of July, about our ten of the Clock in the Morning, in the 25 degree of Cancer, but will be invisible to us, the Moon being then in the Antipodes. Now though it be a great Eclipse, yet it will not quit cost to go thither to behold it, and therefore it will be cheaper for you to take our predictions of it at home.

In this Eclipse then we find Jupiter to be in a Trine with Mars; this prognosticates a great deal of lying, I do not mean lying long in bed, (which Ladies and young Wenches will be much addicted to) but lying with the Tongue, whereby one to over-reach another, to gain the World and loose their Conscience; a Vice so detestable that the Egyptians made a Law, that whoever told a Lye should be beheaded.

But if that Law were in force here,
Few Petty-Foggers would be found I fear;
The very Court would forfeit now and then
Many a Complementing Gentleman.
But sure the City were the greatest share,
Where lying buys and sells a World of Ware.
The Country sometimes would a Head allow,
In selling Corn, a Horse, a Sow, a Cow.
And then a Headsman would get store of Pelf,
If he would but refrain to lye himself.

Again we find Mercury to be in his Detriment in the Cusp of this Eclipse. This prognosticates that Cuckolds Horns (according as Francton saw them in his Dream) are of several sorts; some are argent Horns, deckt with precious Stones, such are the Horns of them whose Wives help them to a profitable Infamy: But those Horns that are simply of Wood, belong to such blind Wretches, as are Cuckolds, but know it not, and gain nothing by their Wives Leviry, besides the bare Disgrace. And yet, some are of opinion that Women are in no fault at all in making their Husbands Cuckolds, concluding with the Poet,

Alas we find those Doves are innocent,
And that the Cuckold chiefly is in fault,
Whose stubborn carriage, and stern Regiment.
Makes upright Women many times to halt:
For when a Man is of a sowre Condition,
Churlish and froward in his Disposition,
It thrusts such things into a Woman's Mind
As she were dream'd on if he had been kind.

The Fourth, and last of this years Eclipses, will be of the Sun, on the 16 Day of December, about our Midnight: It will be a great Eclipse where it is to be seen, but visible only to our Antipodes; now if you have no other business to go thither but only to behold it, I suppose you might as good tarry at home.

But let us see what Conclusions we can gather from hence. Mars is irradicated in the Cusp of Taurus; some People shall weare Horns on their Nose, when their Wives perhaps may think it is more proper for them to wear them on their Fore-heads; now this distemper threatens most those old feeble Men who marry young buxom Wives.

Now those who have such Wives they'r full of Tricks,
Being all compos'd of Mirth, all Meretrix.

Mercury is in a Conjunction with Venus, and when such Conjunctions happen, it signifies a most plentiful Crop that Year, of Hectors, Trappanners, Gilts, Pads, Biters, Prigs, Divers, Lifters, Filers, Bulkers, Droppers, Famblers, Donnakers, Cross-biters, Kidnappers, Vouchers, Millikers, Pymers, Decoys and Shop-lifters; all New-gate-Birds, whom the Devil prepares ready fitted for Tyburn; ripe Fruit, ready to drop into the Hangman's Mouth.

When

When many Warnings mend them not therefore,
The Hangman warns them, they offend no more;
He's the Catastrophe and Epilogue,
Of many of the desperate Catalogue:
And he is one that cannot wanted be,
But still God keep him far enough from me.

And now for a Conclusion, I shall give you a Story out of Guzman, an Author above all Exception; which though it be of a thing already done, yet for ought I know, may be as pertinent to the purpose, as any of our Predictions for what is to come to pass.

A certain Beggar near unto Genoa in Italy, named Pantalon, having by his Father been dismembred in his Limbs, the better to move Peoples Charity towards him; riding upon an Ass from Town to Town, did in process of time attain to such Riches, that falling sick in the City of Florence, he sent for a Publick Notary, and in this manner made his Will.

Imprimis, I commend my Soul unto God, who created it, and my Body to the Earth, to be buried in mine own Parish.

Item, My Will is, That my Ass be sold, which Money shall be bestowed upon my Burial: But the Pack-Saddle I bequeath unto the Great Duke my Lord and Master, whom I nominate to be my Sole Executor, and make my general and universal Heir.

This done, after that he had settled and sealed this his Last Will and Testament, anon after he dyed.

But when the Great Duke understood of this Will, (which was not long kept from his knowledge) having formerly heard of the Testator, and that he was held to be a wise and discreet Man, he did from thence collect, that this Clause was not without its Mystery. Whereupon he gave Order that this Legacy he had left him, should forthwith be brought unto the Palace; and when he had it before him, he commanded it to be ript in sunder, piece after piece, and still as they went along, they took forth divers different sorts of Coin: And when they had sorted out these several sorts of Monies (which were all in good Gold) they amounted in the whole, whole, to Three Thousand and Six Hundred Spanish Crowns. The Great Duke hereupon gave Order to have this Will entred, and to remain upon Record to after Ages; and that the Legacy he had given him, should be employed for the good of his Souls Health.

This was a Beggar few the like e're seen,
Who far surpassed ours of Bednal-Green;
Being worth Ten Thousand Beggars, such as those
Who scarce are worth the Hanging for their Cloaths.
Then rest in Peace thou Beggar Capital,
Who deserved'st to be King of Beggars all.

Of the four Quarters or Seasons of the Year.

THe Spring Quarter taketh its beginning according to Astronomical Prediction, on the Tenth day of March, at which time the Sun enters into the Equinoctial Sign Aries; in which as the Ancients thought, he was placed at the Worlds Creation, and is called the Spring, or Ver, à virendo, quia tunc omnia virescunt; because all things grow green and flourish.

When Birds do sing their Notes, and balmy Showers
Deck the soft Breast of Fragrant Meads with Flowers.

The Summer Quarter taketh its rise at Don Phœbus, entrance into the first Scruple of the Tropical Sign Cancer; making the longest Day and shortest Night, to all the Inhabitants on this side the Equator. This Quarter is by Nature hot and dry.

When Flora lays forth all her Pride, and Day
Perfects the Embryon, Blossoms on each Spray.

The Autumnal Quarter takes beginning at the Sun's entrance into the other Equinoctial Sign Libra, again making equal Day and Night to all the World, except under the Poles: This Quarter is naturally cold and dry, and therefore is by some called the Fall of the Leaf.

When Summers Pride begins to fade away,
And Night s' encroach upon the Hours of Day.

Winter or the Hiemal Quarter, being the last and worst of all the Four, commenceth with the Suns entrance into the first scruple of the Tropick of Capricorn, which which it doth this Year on Tuesday the 11th of December, making our Shortest Day, and Longest Night, the Sun being then furthest distant from us.

When Phœbus Lamp to our Horison low,
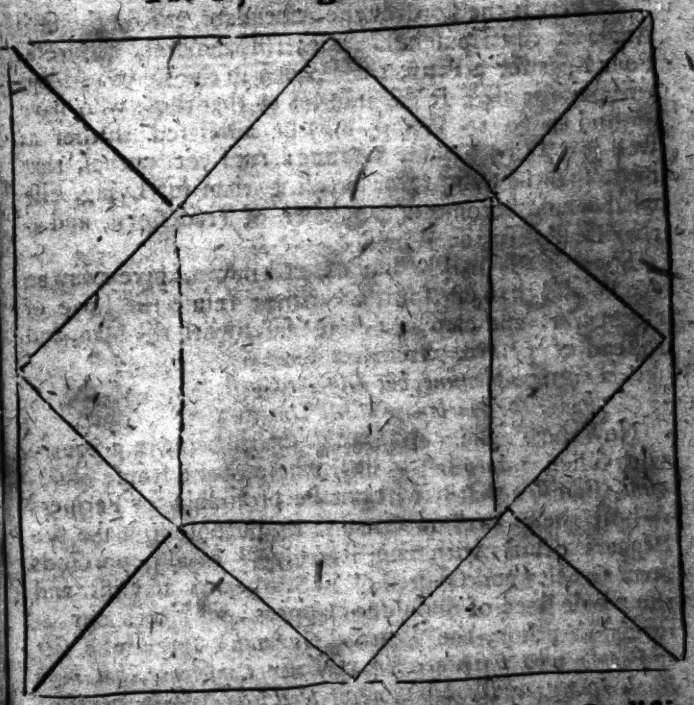
The Shortest Days, and Coldest doth bestow.

The Astrological Scheme.



We shall not presume to be absolute in our Predictions, being advised to the contrary by our aforesaid Author the Learned Gazman; for saith he, the Stars non compellunt, sed inclinant, they incline, but not constrain; they make Men apt, but they do not chain. Some ignorant Fools stick not to say, O Sir, Destiny is not to be avoided; that which shall be, shall be, and it is in vain to strive against it. I tell thee (my Friend) it is a vain thing to say so;

so; and thou dost not understand the truth thereof aright; for there is no necessity that it is, or should be so, it is thou thy self that makest it so to be; thus far he. Seeing then the best Prophets are but good Guessers, and that nothing can be affirmed positively, I shall give you only my Conjectures, but hope to hit the Nail on the Head as well as the best Astrologer of them all.

Mercury is the Lord of the Ascendant, and in the fifth Angle of the House of Taurus; this denotes, as sure as Four Eggs for a Peny, the Wench in the Red Petticoat will pay for all. It also informs us that those who have a mind to go to Prison, may be admitted thither as well for Words as for Stealing: And yet withal, that more shall be Hang'd for Stealing than for Lying, else what would become of a number of Tradesmen, and other Dealers in the World.

Some Maids shall be like unto Children, give away an Apple and then cry for the Paring; refuse the Love of the Master, and clap up a close Match with the Man, and instead of a Hawk purchase a Buzzard.

Love is a pleasing, but disquiet Guest,
That is the Harbinger of all Unrest.

Now the Thunder-thumping Jupiter being in a Square with sullen Saturn in the fifth Angle of the House of Gemini, signifies that it will not be profitable for Farmers to boil their Beef in Canary, on purpose to make the Beggars drunk with the Porridge. It also portends great Cruelty and Oppression in Sergeants, Bayliffs, and the whole Race of Shoulder-clappers; for (says our aforesaid Author, the Learned Guzman) They are a sort of People who have neither Soul nor Conscience, but most lively Images of the Ministers of Hell; so close do they cling unto thee when thou falleſt into their Clutches; And if they do not drag thee by the Collar, hauling and tugging thee, as if they would pull out thy Throat, (which thou must acknowledge for a great and singular Courtesie) yet at the least, shalt thou be so basely used by them, that the Eagle will carry away the fearful Hare with a great deal more Clemency, and mercy, in her sharp Tallons, than those Hell-hounds will there. Yet no doubt there may be some honest of that Pro-

Profession; but for such as those we have here described, we say with the Poet,

They're Men whose Ill is grown to such a height,
It makes the Earth groan to support their weight;
The Quintessence and Abstract of all Ease,
Cloathed in Flesh to play the closer Devil.

And therefore of such kind of Men, my aforesaid Author saith, There is not in all Bruxels any such good Hangings, that do either so much adorn, or half so well become any Noble-mans House, as these would the Commonwealth, if they were hung up one after another, by the Common Hangman.

Again, we find Mercury at Bow-peep with Venus, and Luna deeply in her Mulligrubs: This Predicts, That many Men shall earn a great deal of Mony, and as soon as they have done, go to the Alehouse and spend it; these People are like the Country Mans Cow, which would give a great deal of Milk, and then kick it down with her Foot. Others again shall be troubled with the Devonshire Mans's Disease, who was not Sick, nor was he well, he could Eat and Drink woundily, but he could not work.

Now for to cure such a Disease as this,
The Oyl of Whip the surest Medicine is.

Now you must know (or else you know nothing) that Luna is Lady of all moist and unconstant Matters, and Venus is Gubernatrix of the Spring; now when these Planets are in Conjunction, Maids will be more forward to marry than Men; and as Eve woed Adam, so will they write so many Love-Epistles and whining Sonnets, that it is to be feared, Paper will be very dear and scarce. This you will think is very strange; and is it not as strange that the Sea should breed Fishes that have no Tongue, and the Earth bring forth Men that have too much? that the Sea should afford us Soles, and the Earth Men, that have no Souls?

Or if they have, their Actions do declare
That what becomes of them they do not care.

For some Men shall damn their Souls, and venture their Ears to the Pillory, and their Necks to the Halter,

for

for gaining of Riches; which having gain'd, they spend as lewdly as they got it wickedly. In what better condition are they who live contentedly with what they have honestly gotten? For without comparison, much more is the Riches of a poor Man that is contented, than of a rich Man that is never satisfied: He possesseth them that is not possessed by them; he is rich that seeks not after Riches; and he hath more Store, that is least stored; but to him that is not contented, nothing is enough; to a craving Mind, all is too little, wanting much, by having too much.

Wealth's Horse-leaches they are that ever crave,
So much the more still that the more they have;
Whose drooling Hands think nothing can supply
The greedy Wants of their insatiate Eye.

I shall conclude all with a merry Story something applicable to this purpose. A certain Man had a Picture, the upper and middle part of which Square or Piece, was taken up by a great rich Man, which was there pourtrayed forth to the Life: On his right hand stood a roaring Boy to fight for him if need were, and on his left, a Fool, to make his Worship merry, and to put him out of his Dumps; both which were expressed in such a Posture as fitted best with them. Under this rich Man was drawn a Country Clown, under the Clown a Merchant, under the Merchant a Councellor at Law, under the Councellor a Confessor, under the Confessor a Physician, and under the Physitian the Devil; with a long Chain, whose Links were made of Womens Tongues, which kept an horrible ratling. Now the rich Man had written over his head, These two I keep: The Clowns Word was, I maintain these three: The Merchants Motto, I rob these four: The Councellors Posie, I pill these five: the Confessors, I absolve these six: The Physician's, I kill these seven: And the Devil had a Label coming out of his Mouth, which said, I carry away all these eight with me to Hell.

And thus you see how some be born and bred,
And what becomes of them when they are dead.

But one word more (as the Parson says) and then I have have done. The best Counsel I can give thee, is, to be a good Husband, and not to spend thy Mony lavishly, especially upon Flatterers: For though one Swallow make no Summer, a prodigal Summer makes many Swallows: But when thy profuse Nest grows thin of Feathers, they quickly change their Winter Quarter for a warmer Harbour.

Whilst Mony freely goes Friends will be many,
But when all's spent, of Friends you scarce have any.

And the better to shew the Effects of good Husbandry, I shall give you a Story as is related by Mr. Wanley in his History of Man.

A Gentleman in Surrey that had Land worth Two Hundred Pounds per Annum, which he kept in his own Hands, but running out every year, he was necessitated to sell half to pay his Debts, and let the rest to a Farmer, for one and twenty Years. Before that Term was expired, the Farmer one Day bringing his Rent, asked him if he would sell his Land? Why (said he) Will you buy it? If it please you, saith the Farmer. How, said he, that's strange, tell me how this comes to pass, that I could not live upon twice as much being my own, and you upon one half thereof, though you have paid Rent for it are able to buy it? Oh saith the Farmer, but two Words made the Difference. You said go, and I said come. What's the meaning of that, said the Gentleman? You lay in bed, replyed the Farmer, or took your pleasure, and sent others about your Business, and I rose betimes and saw my Business done my self.

Of all the Beasts of Craft making a Sup
Distill'd in one, to make one Nature up.

Luna.

Luna is cold and moist, changing her Nature and Qualities according to the Quarters. Those Persons born under this Planet, will be unconstant, variable, great lovers of Peas-porridge, given in their Youth much to the play of Scotch-hoppers, making love to divers Maids, and at last chusing the worst of them all to their Wife.

In brief they'l be such sort of Men whose Minds
In various Change strive to out-vie the Winds.

Du-Bartas Confutation of Copernicus's Opinion, that the Sun ſtands ſtill, and the Earth moves.

So never ſhould an Arrow ſhoot upright
In the ſame place upon the Shooter light;
But would do (rather) as at Sea, a Stone
Aboard a Ship upward uprightly thrown,
Which not within-board falls, but in the Flood

So, ſhould the Fowls that take their nimble Flight
From weſtern Marſhes towards Morning Light.
And Zephyrus, that in the Summer time
Delights to viſit Eurus in his Clime.
And Bullets thundred from the Cannons Throat,
(Whoſe roaring drowns the Heavenly Thunders Note)
Should ſeem recoyl; ſithence the quick carrere,
That our round Earth ſhould daily gallop here,
Muſt needs exceed a hundred fold for ſwift,
Birds, Bullets, Winds: Their Wings, their Force, their Drift.
